

EDUCATION ABROAD

The Center for Global Education (CGE) provides full-semester education abroad experiences for undergraduate students limited to between 15 and 35 participants. In addition to semester-long programs, CGE coordinates with CSB and SJJ academic departments to offer 10-15 short-term study abroad options each year either in the summer or embedded in the semester. CGE offers credit-bearing international internships and research opportunities through the Global Fellowship Program. Finally, students can choose to study abroad elsewhere through an External Study Abroad Program.

In keeping with the goals of a liberal arts education, the curricular emphasis of education abroad is upon a disciplined and focused curriculum which is designed to take full advantage of local, regional and national opportunities at each site. Courses taught abroad are integrated fully into the Integrations Curriculum and/or departmental offerings. Each program includes required pre-departure orientation sessions, which include readings, lectures, discussions, writing assignments and audio-visual components. These on-campus meetings, together with individualized academic planning and increased attention to building upon the international experience after return to campus, serve to integrate the study abroad programs into the overall CSB and SJJ curriculum.

All CSB and SJJ students are encouraged to attend a Study Abroad 101 informational session in person to begin the research process. Students are urged to consider study abroad early in their four-year planning process and to meet with CGE staff to discuss their options. For detailed information about the courses offered through Education Abroad programs at CSB and SJJ, please consult the CGE website. (https://www.csbsju.edu/global/)

Australia

Fremantle is home to the University of Notre Dame Australia (UNDA), Australia’s first private, Catholic university in Western Australia. Students have access to a large variety of courses because they enroll directly at UNDA. Students live in a residence hall with other international and Australian students. All students are required to take the Australian History and Culture course, taught by a UNDA faculty member. A key part of that course is an excursion where students spend time connecting with an aboriginal community in rural Australia. Students choose three additional courses from the academic course catalog at UNDA that can meet requirements in the Common or Integrations Curriculum or possibly major or minor requirements. There is not a CSB and SJJ faculty director who accompanies this study abroad program.

Austria

The CSB and SJJ study abroad semester program in Salzburg, Austria focuses on German language and European history, culture, art, and politics. Students take classes at the AIFS Study Center in the baroque city of Salzburg, surrounded by alpine mountains. No previous German language is required for this program. While in Salzburg, each student has the option to enroll in a German course appropriate to their skill level. In addition to the language courses, the program offers courses in art history, business, history, music, political science, and philosophy as well as the Study Abroad Seminar taught by the CSB and SJJ faculty director. Most courses except the German language courses are taught in English. Students live in international student dormitories and have the opportunity to engage in Austrian life and culture through program excursions.

Chile

The CSB and SJJ semester program in Chile is in the sea-side town of Viña del Mar, 70 miles west of Chile’s capital, Santiago. Viña (as it is more commonly known) has a population of approximately 325,000 and is surrounded by picturesque beaches, ocean, and mountains. Viña makes an excellent location for students wishing to advance their Spanish language skills while, at the same time, integrating into the rich and diverse culture through volunteer opportunities, university clubs and organizations, and host family experiences. Students study at the Universidad Adolfo Ibáñez, a small private university beautifully situated with views of the bay. Courses are offered in a wide variety of subjects such as Latin American Art and Culture, Chilean History, Global Business, and Spanish Grammar. The faculty consists of a CSB and SJJ professor who accompanies the group and distinguished professors from the Universidad Adolfo Ibáñez.

France

Students on France program live and study in Montpellier, one of France’s fastest-growing cities and home to thousands of university students from around the world. Near both the Mediterranean Sea and the Cévennes Mountains, a semester in Montpellier give students easy access to the cultural activities and historical sites of the city and the beauty of the natural world. An overnight excursion to the medieval cities of Carcassonne, Lagrasse and the Cathars’ castles, and day trips across the south of France included. The program is offered with the partnership of the University of Minnesota’s Montpellier Study Abroad Program. Students live two to a family with French families. There is no language prerequisite for this program. All students take the Study Abroad Seminar course taught by the CSB and SJJ faculty director and a French language class at their appropriate level. Students also select from a variety of courses, taught in French or English, that can fulfill Integrations Curriculum and major/minor requirements. Students with 2 years of French can complete an internship during their semester abroad.

Greece

In Greece, students study in Athens – the cradle of western art, philosophy and democratic ideals. Contrasts between the ancient and contemporary in this lively and boisterous Mediterranean metropolis provide a backdrop for an exploration of the origins and legacy of classical culture. In Athens, CSB and SJJ partner with College Year in Athens to offer an academic program that focuses on classical art, business, environmental studies, history, psychology, religion and literature. Courses are taught in English in classrooms, on historical and archaeological sites, and in museums. The faculty consists of a CSB and SJJ professor who accompanies the group and distinguished professors from universities and colleges in Athens. Students live in shared apartments a short distance from the CYA campus.

Ireland, Cork

Cork is the second largest city in the Republic of Ireland with a population of over 100,000. It is located on the river Lee in the southern region of Ireland. This is one of the most independent study abroad programs offered by CSB and SJJ, since there is not a CSB and SJJ faculty member who accompanies the program. Students directly enroll at University College Cork. Students select from a wide range of the University’s regularly scheduled humanities and science courses. CSB and SJJ students live in furnished apartments located within walking distance of the campus.
Ireland, Dublin
Dublin is the capital and the largest city in the Republic of Ireland. Ireland’s capital is edgy, sophisticated and fast growing, all while maintaining its quirky, historic charm. A CSB and SJU faculty does not accompany this study abroad program. Students direct enroll at the Dublin Business School (DBS) for the semester. There are many unique academic opportunities and course offerings available from Accounting, Business, Communication, Literature, and Psychology. In addition to course work, students will have an internship placement with a small- to mid-sized company in Dublin in areas like Business, Communications or Finance organized by our program partner FIE. To round out the experience, students have two major excursions to Northern Ireland and the Galway area that are included in the required Irish life and Cultures course. CSB and SJU students live in furnished apartments located within walking distance of the campus.

Italy
The CSB and SJU Italy program is based in the iconic city of Rome. Students live and learn within walking distance of the centers of power that have shaped Western Civilization for millennia. In Rome, CSB and SJU partners with CEA CAPA Education Abroad to provide students an experience that allows them to explore vast resources of antiquity; layer after layer of ecclesiastical and political development form the basis for analysis. This program is focused on the study of Italian language and culture, art, history, religion, psychology, business, sociology and sustainability. Courses are taught in classrooms, on historical and archaeological sites, and in museums. This program also offers the option of completing a 4-credit international internship in English or Italian. The faculty consists of a CSB and SJU professor who accompanies the group and distinguished professors from universities and colleges Rome. Students live in apartments located within a short commute of the CEA CAPA Study Center.

Japan
The Japan program is located in central Tokyo, ideally situated for a study abroad program. The program is hosted by Bunkyo Gakuin University, a collaborative partner of CSB and SJU for more than twenty-five years. Students take one Japanese language course at their appropriate level. All other courses are taught in English with a focus on arts, culture, politics, and the economy. The faculty consists of the CSB and SJU program director, who accompanies the group, and professors from Bunkyo Gakuin University. Students are housed in the international student residence hall, a five-minute walk from campus. Excursions to Kyoto, Hiroshima, and Karuizawa, as well as visits to important sites in the vicinity of Tokyo enhance the student learning experience.

South Africa
Gqeberha, formerly Port Elizabeth, situated on the Indian Ocean near the southern tip of the African continent, has a population of over one million and is South Africa’s sixth largest city. Students study in classrooms at Nelson Mandela University (NMU) where they choose from seminar courses designed specifically for the CSB and SJU program including political science, literature, South African music, and marine biology. In addition, all students enroll in the Study Abroad Seminar taught by their CSB and SJU faculty director. CSB and SJU students have full access to library, computer lab, recreation and sports facilities with South African and other international students at NMU. Many choose to get involved with the local clubs and organizations. Service Learning is a major component of this program. All students spend 6 to 8 hours per week at one of our three service locations. Students live in apartments which overlook the beach and are located approximately two miles from NMU’s campus.

Spain
CSB and SJU partners with CEA CAPA Education Abroad and Universidad Pablo de Olavide to allow students to experience the architecture, history, and warm hospitality of the ancient city of Seville, the base of our Spain program. This program offers a study of Spanish culture, art, history, government, religion, business, and language as well as the option to complete a 4-credit international internship in English or Spanish. The Spain program is open to students who have successfully completed HISP 112 prior to the start of the program. Courses are taught in both English and Spanish. Visits to national monuments, historic cities, and museums occur on excursions that are integrated into the academic experience. Students live with Spanish host families. The faculty consists of a director from CSB and SJU who accompanies the group and distinguished professors from Seville’s universities and colleges.

United Kingdom
London provides the perfect environment for examining British life, culture, business, literature, theology, art, and more. This program partners with FIE located in the Kensington area of London. This program is offered both fall and spring semesters. During one semester, a CSB and SJU faculty member accompanies the group and teaches the study abroad semester course; the other semester the group studies independently without a CSB and SJU faculty member. All other courses are taught by faculty from London universities and colleges. Students can choose courses from a wide range of disciplines. Along with lectures and assigned readings, professors use the city as a classroom and explore area like Museums, Art Galleries, places of worship, Theatre, and the Houses of Parliament. Students will also have two or three excursions outside London. Students on this program all participate in an internship to gain international professional experience that serve a wide variety of majors and minors. Students are housed in furnished flats within walking distance of FIE.

External Study Abroad Programs
Students who want to go abroad through another college, university, or provider program will be registered under External Study Abroad. Students interested in this option need to work with the Center for Global Education to learn the steps of the process. All external study abroad programs need to adhere to our International Travel Policy. Students will maintain their status as CSB and SJU students for purposes of registration and certain federal and state financial aid. Seniors must ordinarily be in residence for the two semesters immediately preceding commencement (graduation). "In residence" is defined as enrollment as a full-time student at CSB and SJU for a minimum of 12 credits per semester. Any student wishing to register for an External Study Abroad program during their last two semesters of their senior year must receive approval from the Academic Advising Office. Seniors will not be allowed to register for a year-long External Study Abroad program. Find more information on the External study abroad process, application, and fee on the CGE website.

ART 270AA DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY (AE) (4 Credits)

ART 270IA Rome Sketchbook (3 Credits)
This course is designed to take full advantage of the student’s unique experiences living and studying in the city of Rome. With onsite inspiration as a foundation for artistic development, students will draw on location at sites of historical significance and visual interest ranging from architectural masterpieces, museums, sculptures and fountains to formal gardens and landscape vistas. The course will explore the rich history of how Rome has attracted and inspired visiting artists for centuries. Students will explore artistic techniques and creativity through personal sketchbooks that will serve as a visual diary for developing future projects and ideas. Students will receive regular group and individual critiques from the instructor, but they will also be actively involved in analyzing and evaluating their own work and the work of others in a collaborative atmosphere of constructive reflection and criticism. At the end of the course students will have the opportunity to exhibit drawings and sketchbooks in an exhibition. Note: This course has an additional $100 course fee.

ART 370GA Art History of Greece - Abroad (4 Credits)
The course examines the art of ancient Greece from the Geometric Period (ca. 900 B.C.) to the end of the Hellenistic period (about 31/27 B.C.). The concerns of this course are manifold. The focus will be on functions, trends, and styles in sculpture and painting, with some address to architecture. We shall be concerned with the part art played in the everyday life of the ancient Greek. We shall also focus on the personalities of the artists, when known, and discuss the relationship of painting and architecture with sculpture: who commissioned the works and why, what the ancients thought about their art, and what the art adds to our knowledge of ancient Greek life and culture in general.
Prerequisites: None
Corequisites: XXXX 53
Attributes: Artistic Expression (AE)

ART 370IA Art History of Italy - Abroad (4 Credits)
This course provides students with the necessary background, context and methodology to understand Renaissance art and the transition from one period to the other. You will learn to recognize, interpret and analyze a work of art produced in Italy between the fifteenth and the sixteenth century and place it both within its artistic and historical context and within the individual artist’s career. In addition, the course will widen your cultural horizons and increase your capacity to absorb and elaborate sophisticated intellectual and artistic issues. The course consists in an introductory survey of the visual arts produced in Rome during a period that marks the passage from the Middle Ages to Modernity through the rediscovery of Classical Antiquity, the transformation of Christian Europe in the wake of Luther’s Reformation, and the passage from feudalism to absolutism. These great changes are reflected in the artistic trends of the time: the Renaissance with its quest for balance and harmony and Mannerism with its emphasis on the artist’s persona. On-site classes will enable you to acquire a concrete idea of Rome as a city that was home to the major artists of the so-called High Renaissance.

Th e framework provided during the lectures in class will give intellectual order to the experience of seeing historical masterpieces in their setting. Fundamental to the course is the on-site examination of masterworks by Michelangelo, Raphael and others in the city’s famous museums, palaces and churches.

COLG 170B Beginning Italian I - Rome (4 Credits)
This course is designed for students who have little or no prior knowledge of Italian. The primary aim of the course is to develop the four basic skills (reading, writing, listening and speaking) through a communicative, collaborative and cultural approach. In order to develop these skills the primary language of instruction in this course is Italian. The course combines several integrated approaches aimed at developing your skills. Most in-class time, driven by the structure of the textbook and accompanying workbook, is devoted to speaking and practicing Italian through a combination of group-based and individual activities, focusing on grammatical structures, language functions and vocabulary. Lessons also focus on a wide range of contemporary cultural themes through the use of varied materials such as newspaper articles, advertising material and short film clips. Onsite activities such as visits to markets and bars will give you a unique chance to rapidly implement your linguistic development in real-life. To give you further opportunities to develop your linguistic and intercultural skills in real local-community situations, your professor will assist in arranging conversation exchanges with Italians, either as part of in-class cultural exchanges with local Italians as guests, or during on-site study excursions. Special extra-curricular activities, organized by various local institutions, will be announced at the start of the semester and your instructor will help you identify which activities would be most useful for you. These and other cultural components of the course will also promote your knowledge of Italy and Italians, as you learn about Italian society, and thus learning Italian gives you a privileged opportunity to develop sensitivity towards cultural differences and to understand the ways in which culture and language interlock. In this sense you will be encouraged to exploit the value of these lessons not just as a useful aid to your progress in other courses at the Global Campus, but as a set of tools for unlocking a wide range of intercultural discoveries whilst living and studying abroad. By the end of the course, you are expected to have mastered basic grammar and lexical structures, so that you’ll be able to conduct a simple conversation and to write short and basic texts with some degree of competency. You will be able to speak about yourself and your family, to introduce people, to interact with the host community and to follow short and simple conversations.

COLG 370CA Cinematographic Recklessness: Chile through Documentary (4 Credits)

All representation is transformation. No artistic discipline has reflected this statement more than documentary film about Chile. Synthesis of history and politics, the artistic and social commitment of its filmmakers has an unavoidable vanishing point. "The coup d’état not only marks the year 1973," points out Chilean documentary filmmaker Patricio Guzmán, "but it also extends throughout all of Chilean history." The shards of this fact still reach us, even after half a century. Faced with this tragedy that never seems to end, "documentary film is always going to be dangerous," adds Guzmán. "Because it has no fear." This course will revolve around this cinematographic recklessness that is the driving force behind documentaries about Chile.

Prerequisites: None
Corequisites: XXXX 42
Attributes: Human Experience (HE)

COLG 370IA Environmental Ethics - Rome (3 Credits)

The general aim of this course is to explore the ethical challenges involved in the creation and maintenance of sustainable societies. In particular, we will ask what exactly it is that we should seek to sustain, why, how, and who or what should do so. We will consider the sustainability of current political, business, and cultural practices, as well as individual lifestyles. A study of the phenomenon of climate change and of the notion of "the Anthropocene" – this new epoch in which no earthly place, entity, form, process, or system escapes the reach and influence of human activity – will be a particularly weighty element in this course. Students will explore the philosophical foundations of a plausible environmental ethic that may reconcile human responsibilities towards non-human nature and the future to our ongoing quest for meaning in a globalized, highly interconnected, unprecedentedly populated, rapidly urbanizing, ecologically deteriorating world. Students will examine the challenges that understanding and living up to these responsibilities pose to our psychology and our ethical and political systems. Pre-requisite: completion of one 200 level course or two 100 level courses in the subject area of instruction.

Prerequisites: None
Corequisites: XXXX 54

COLG 370IC Basic Operations Management (3 Credits)

Operations management is a key managerial function impacting the whole of an organization and is concerned with designing, controlling, and improving the processes used to produce goods and/or provide services. This course serves as an introduction to the field of operations and supply chain management and will provide students with an understanding of the strategic implications of the many decisions facing operations managers. Students will develop knowledge of manufacturing resources planning by exploring forecasting, production planning, master scheduling, material requirements planning, capacity planning, world-class manufacturing principles, and continuous improvement. Students will be introduced to problem-solving techniques in design, planning, controlling of manufacturing and service operations, and quality. They will also participate in a systematic study of the managerial and mathematical techniques along with information technology resources used to make goods and services. Pre-requisites: completion of one introductory course in Business and/or Information Systems.

Prerequisites: None
Corequisites: XXXX 54

COLG 370ID Basic Operations Management Lab (1 Credit)

This 1-credit course is assignment-based, using Microsoft’s Excel software, and is intended to complement the 3-credit Basic Operations Management course (BUS 334). It consists of weekly, one-hour laboratory sessions in which students develop their skills in the application of Excel in order to resolve Operational Research problems. Emphasis will therefore be placed on the practical implementation of real-world models, building on competencies acquired in the 3-credit BOM course. The laboratory sessions are informal, and students are expected to contribute in a positive manner.

GBUS 370IA Business Ethics Management - Rome (3 Credits)
This course will apply fundamental concepts in ethical theory to business practice, investigate methods of stakeholder analysis, introduce some rudiments of behavioral economics, explore specific ethically and socially sensitive topics in business and management, and lay out the ethically problematic structure of representative real-life cases. To assess such claims, the course selects real-life problematic cases and applies to them moral theories such as Consequentialism and Deontology, and most importantly Aristotle's Virtue ethics as configured in his Nicomachean Ethics. Also of interest will be justifications and critiques of market capitalism, economic rationality as opposed to moral reasonableness, justice, property rights, the notion of externalities, and conceptions of responsibility. You will refer to a selected number of texts, research real-world business cases, analyze and give presentations on selected subsidiary readings, and engage in class discussions over specific topics.
Pre-requisites: completion of one introductory course in Ethics and/or Business & Management.
Prerequisites: None

GBUS 370IB Cross Cultural Management (3 Credits)
This course examines and analyzes what constitutes both real leadership and effective managerial technique in today's cross-cultural environment of global business. The purpose of this course is to impress upon students the critical role culture plays in devising effective international management strategies and techniques. It aims to highlight those areas of cultural divergence, which always challenge communication, understanding, and meaningful teamwork between people of very different cultural backgrounds. It strives to instruct us to identify our own cultural assumptions, conditioning and practices impeding our ability to positively interact with those quite different from us. And it seeks to provide students with down-to-earth knowledge and a mix of basic technical skills on how both to avoid the managerial pitfalls of cultural innocence and how to employ their cultural awareness and sensitivity for effective management and action in cross-cultural settings.

GBUS 370IC International Marketing - Rome (3 Credits)
The task of international marketing is complex enough when the company operates in a single foreign national market. It is much more complex when the company starts operations in several countries. Globalization is the growing interdependence of national economies involving primarily customers, producers, suppliers, and governments in different markets. Therefore, global marketing reflects the trend of firms selling and distributing products and services in many countries around the world and it is associated with governments reducing trade and investment barriers, firms manufacturing in multiple countries, and foreign firms increasingly competing in domestic markets. Marketing programs must in these situations, adapt to the needs and preferences of customers that have different levels of purchasing power as well as different climates, languages, and cultures.

GBUS 370LE Strategic Brand Management Strategic Brand Management (4 Credits)
How does brand management affect organizational value? How do customers and their engagement in real or virtual communities shape the nature of brands? How does services branding differ from goods branding? This course introduces, explores and applies a range of strategic brand management issues that drive brand equity and value. Customers are increasingly co-creators of brand value as part of a more interactive and dialectical process. Witness the rise of social media where dialogue, conversation, interaction are the key drivers of brand growth. The days of shouting from a billboard as the primary form of brand marketing are gone. Students will explore issues such as the strategic branding process, consumer perception, brands as social and psychological vehicles, the competitive landscape, and brand evaluation. By the end of the course should have developed a deeper understanding of brand, the strategic branding process and an appreciation of how to brand in a given context to maximize equity and value.

HIST 370IA History of Rome in the Classical World (4 Credits)
This course provides students with an introductory knowledge of the history of Ancient Rome from its origins through the 2nd cent. AD. More specifically, it addresses political, religious, social and economic aspects of Antiquity while also exploring the city of Rome at first hand, in order to illustrate the context and development of its various historical processes. Class lectures are complemented by fieldtrips to different areas of the ancient city, which will further explain the background and nuances of its history. The goal of the course is to help students understand how political, religious and economic circumstances of Roman history had a fundamental influence on shaping the urban landscape of the city and how today we can read the history of the Roman empire by carefully studying the different compounds of that urban landscape. Emphasis will be given to the place of Rome in the cultural history of the Mediterranean, the spaces of political activity within the city, as well as the way in which emperors conveyed their rule to the citizens by coordinated building programs. A selection of texts from ancient writers will illustrate daily life in the metropolis that ancient Rome grew to become at the beginning of the second cent. AD. (study abroad only)

PSYC 369IA  Positive Psychology - Rome  (3 Credits)
This course will take students through the recent science of positive psychology, which aims to 'understand, test, discover, and promote the factors that allow individuals and communities to thrive' (Sheldon et al, 2000). In particular, positive psychology comprises the scientific exploration of well-being, happiness, flow, personal strengths, compassion, creativity, and characteristics of positive groups and institutions that enable their development. In this sense, rather than focusing solely on the happiness of individuals and on a self-centered approach, positive psychology also concentrates on happiness and flourishing at a group-level. We will look at how individuals and groups flourish and how increasing the well-being of one will have a positive effect on the other. The first part of this course reviews the theory and research on positive psychology, while the second part focuses on theoretical conflicts and real-world applications. Every session will incorporate experiential learning and exercises aimed at increasing personal well-being and at facilitating students’ understanding of the fundamental questions in the field. Ultimately, the students will be able to utilize a more accurate and objective (rather than intuitive) understanding of concepts of positive psychology such as happiness, well-being, and compassion. Pre-requisite: completion of an introductory course in Psychology.

SA 385  Austria as the Crossroads of Europe: A Literary Exploration  (4 Credits)
This seminar aims for a historical understanding of Austria’s cultural diversity. The rich diversity of Austria’s cultural heritage—a veritable confluence of nationalities, religions, and political ideologies from across Europe and Eurasia—stands in stark contrast to its popular (Sound of Music) image: Germanic, Catholic, homogenous. This course will examine some of the political and cultural processes that account for that disparity and highlight the historical forces that have shaped—and continue to shape—the diverse aspects of Austrian cultural identity. Drawing on contemporary literature, films, and critical essays, the course will focus on three crucial historical moments: end of the Habsburg Empire; the end of the Second World War; and the end of the twentieth century. In the fourth and final unit of the course, we will focus on the country’s response to the recent (2015-16) arrival of migrants, refugees, and asylum seekers. For each segment, I will emphasize the "crossroads" motif, highlighting the diversity of cultural identities, religions, political viewpoints, etc., and inviting students to think about hegemonic systems/structures that privilege certain cultural expressions and marginalize others.

SA 397PA International Internship-Spain (3-4 Credits)
The competition will be fierce. Every September, over 20 million students are enrolled in higher education. Come graduation, all will be searching for a limited number of jobs. Your degree and what you’ve learned gives you an excellent foundation for the future - but international education makes you different from the rest. Only 15% of students study abroad, and only about 5% complete an international internship. Actively engaging in this experience and being able to convey your career readiness with future employers using language they respect can give you a powerful competitive edge over other graduates. The International Internship course will provide you the opportunity to develop vital business skills employers are actively seeking in job candidates. This course is comprised of two parts: First, you’ll be placed in an internship within a sector related to your professional ambitions as outlined in your placement contract. Second, you will enroll in a hybrid academic seminar conducted both online and in-person where you will analyze and evaluate the workplace culture and the daily working environment you experience. The course is divided into eight career readiness competency modules as set out by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) which guide the course’s learning objectives. During the academic seminar, you will be invited to reflect weekly on your internship experience within the context of your host culture by comparing and contrasting your experiences with your global internship placement with that of your home culture. By creating an intentional time to analyze your experiences in your internship, the role you have played in the evolution of your experience in your internship placement and the experiences of your peers in their internship placements, you will develop a greater awareness of: Your strengths relative to the career readiness competencies, the subtleties and complexities of integrating into a cross-cultural work environment, and how to build and maintain a career search portfolio. This is a variable credit course, offering the flexibility to earn 3-4 credits depending on your internship placement hours. Depending on the program, credits are available based on the following criteria: 3 credits: 22 seminar hours & 120 minimum placement hours; 4 credits: 22 seminar hours & 160 minimum placement hours (these hours meets GBUS requirement).

SA 398PA  International Service Learning - Spain (3 Credits)
This unique international service learning course focuses on the pressing social issues confronting our ever more globalized cities: social inequality and exclusion within the context of the accelerated demographic transformation of today's urban space. Contributing to the ongoing search for effective responses to such endemic problems, you will do volunteer work at a community-based organization in the selected CEA city while simultaneously pursuing theoretical coursework and independent sociological research related to your service learning placement. As the world becomes increasingly globalized, businesses, non-governmental organizations and governments need people with the ability to adapt and excel when faced with the challenges associated with working in foreign countries, such as the variety of working conditions, work practices and cultural norms. Because service learning requires intensive intercultural engagement on a regular basis while exposing you to populations you might otherwise not encounter as a visiting student, this course provides a unique opportunity for you to gain the socio-cultural and research skills employers look for. Furthermore, participating in service learning abroad illustrates your ability to understand and contextualize academic theories and use and adapt research skills to field work. Given this course's central theme of society, inequality and social exclusion, your service learning placement will be situated within one of the following areas to be agreed upon with the instructor: immigration; homelessness; education; youth work; sustainable urban development; the environment; urban cultural expression; or sport. Placements might include: helping disadvantaged children at a homework club; working at an educational project at an immigrant center; working with an organization for the homeless; working with an urban-garden or redevelopment project; contributing to urban cultural expression and preservation; or assisting in centers working with the elderly or disabled. Your 2½ hour per week placement involves working and interacting personally with local community volunteers, giving you first-hand insight into the local neighborhood, its organizations, its membership and the challenges facing them all. Within a traditional course setting and in support of your service learning placement across the semester, you will undergo initial in-depth orientation and intercultural training that will help prepare you for what can be an emotionally challenging, life-changing, and personally rewarding experience. You will also be introduced to group work skills and activities beneficial to your placement and engage in theoretical study and focused reflection in subjects related to the central theme of the course, as well as readings related to your specific service learning area and research project. Throughout the course, you will keep an in-depth research and reflective field journal that will be periodically evaluated by the course instructor. To aid in the analysis of your specific placement and corresponding socio-economic setting, you will be introduced to participant-observation, note-taking, and interviewing skills in line with best research practices. You will conduct a final research project on the work of your placement organization and situate its efforts in broader sociological, environmental and political contexts. This guided placement and research will benefit you whatever your academic discipline and will provide you with the research skills and experience that can benefit senior year research, capstone projects, and career planning. You will be required to pay transport costs to your international service learning placement site.

THEA 370LA Contemporary British Theatre - London (4 Credits)
Did you know London has around one hundred theatres? Fifteen of which are occupied by subsidized companies. Large commercial theatres can be found in the West End offering a variety of light entertainment, musicals and comedies. However, London’s theatre scene is not just big budget productions of Billy Elliot and the Lion King. Off-West End productions feature plays with more individual themes. The most innovative and experimental work is usually found in the ‘fringe’ theatres. Students enrolled in this course will be offered a ‘taste’ of all these modes of production, and a consideration of state subsidy for theatre within a critical framework. Students course will be introduced to a variety of texts, performances and theatrical venues that reflect the vitality of contemporary British theatre. Upon completing the course, students will be able to show an understanding of the network of relationships that constitute contemporary British theatre and be able to critically evaluate theatrical performances with an appreciation of technical terminologically and theoretical perspectives, forming an appreciation of aesthetic, academic and political debates in contemporary British theatre. This course features a co-curricular study tour to Stratford-Upon-Avon.

This course investigates the life of the early Roman Church as revealed through liturgical texts and visual evidence. A historical overview of the first six centuries will illustrate fundamental concepts and developments in the ordering of the community, liturgy, spirituality, and doctrine of the early Western Church. The aim of the course is to introduce students to the living tradition of the Western Church as exemplified by its textual, artistic and architectural remains. As classes will mainly take place on-site, students are expected to complete the reading assignments in advance of the field studies and to have some prior knowledge of the sites to be visited using Internet resources (provided in syllabus).
