

MILITARY SCIENCE (MILS)

MILS 101 Foundations of Officership (2 Credits)

MILS 101 focuses on introduction to the Army and basic Soldier skills. It introduces students to the Army and the Profession of Arms. Students will examine the Army Profession and what it means to be a professional in the U.S. Army. The overall focus is on developing basic knowledge and comprehension of the Army Leadership Requirements Model while gaining a complete understanding of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program, its purpose in the Army, and its advantages for the student. Students also learn to perform basic Soldier skills to survive in a field environment and to support their development as an Army leader. A two-hour leadership lab and two one-hour physical fitness sessions per week are required in addition to class. Fall

Prerequisites: None

MILS 102 Basic Leadership (2 Credits)

This course is a continuation of MILS 101 and is designed to introduce Cadets to the personal challenges and competencies that are critical for effective leadership. Cadets learn how the personal development of life skills such as critical thinking, performance and resilience enhancement skills, and communication will benefit them throughout their life and career. Cadets learn the basics of the communications process and the importance for leaders to develop the essential skills to effectively communicate in the Army. Cadets will begin learning the basics of squad level tactics that will be reinforced during a weekly lab. A two-hour leadership lab and two one-hour physical fitness session per week are required in addition to class. Spring.

Prerequisites: None

MILS 201 Individual Leadership Studies (3 Credits)

MILS 201 focuses on leadership and ethics. The course adds depth to the Cadets knowledge of the different leadership styles. Cadets will conduct a leadership analysis of famous leaders and self-assessment of their own leadership style. The Army Profession is presented through the understanding of values, ethics and how to apply both to different situations they may encounter as a leader. Army Values and Ethics and their relationship to the Law of Armed Conflict (LOAC) and philosophy of military service are also discussed. Cadets are then required to apply their knowledge outside the classroom during hands-on performance-oriented environments. A two-hour leadership lab and two one-hour physical fitness sessions per week are required in addition to class. Fall.

Prerequisites: None

MILS 202 Leadership and Teamwork (3 Credits)

This course is a continuation of MILS 201 which focuses on Army Doctrine and Decision Making. The course begins with analytical techniques, creative thinking skills and the Army problem solving process as related to situations faced by leaders when making decisions. Troop Leading Procedures and the Operations Order will lead Cadets to an understanding of Army Doctrine and Symbology. Squad tactics will be covered in classes on Unified Land Operations, Offensive Operations and Defensive Operations. Cadets are then required to apply their knowledge outside the classroom in a hands-on performance-oriented environment during a weekly lab. A two-hour leadership lab and two one-hour physical fitness sessions per week are required in addition to class. Spring.

Prerequisites: None

MILS 210 American Military History I: 1609 to 1918 (2 Credits)

Army ROTC's Military History course examines the evolution of American warfare from colonial times through the Civil War and World War I to increase Cadets', students', and citizens' understanding of the art of war, political discourse, and the human condition. Participants analyze past events through reading and discussion to gain perspective on the present. The course will not force the memorization of hundreds of dates or allow passive attendance of a lecture; it will challenge students to develop critical thinking to better understand our complex world. Fall.

Prerequisites: None

MILS 211 American Military History II: 1918 to present (2 Credits)

Army ROTC's Military History course continues its examination of the evolution of American warfare from the origins of World War II to the recent past to increase Cadets', students', and citizens' understanding of the art of war, political discourse, and the human condition using the same methods as MILS 210. Spring.
